About Us

The Northwest Arena in Jamestown, New York, is a major year-round indoor activity hub and the heart of the city's indoor recreation. The 35,000-square-foot facility features two NHL-size ice rinks, seating, a walking track, meeting spaces, and a café/lounge, drawing over 250,000 visitors annually.

The arena is also now home to TheZone, a 6,200-square-foot, state-of-the-art indoor play space designed for toddlers through pre-teens. TheZone integrates sports with science, technology, engineering, arts, and math (STEAM), creating an engaging environment that promotes both physical activity and learning.

Beyond sports, the arena serves as a community gathering place where people connect socially and stay engaged with local life. Established in 2002, it operates as a nonprofit (501(c)(3)) focused on economic development for Jamestown, supported through a mix of public and private funding, ticket sales, and donations.
