About Us

The Northwest Arena in Jamestown, New York, is a major year-round indoor activity hub and the heart of the city's indoor recreation. The 35,000-square-foot facility features two NHL-size ice rinks, seating, a walking track, meeting spaces, and a café/lounge, drawing over 250,000 visitors annually.

The arena is also now home to TheZone, a 6,200-square-foot, state-of-the-art indoor play space designed for toddlers through pre-teens. TheZone integrates sports with science, technology, engineering, arts, and math (STEAM), creating an engaging environment that promotes both physical activity and learning.

Beyond sports, the arena serves as a community gathering place where people connect socially and stay engaged with local life. Established in 2002, it operates as a nonprofit (501(c)(3)) focused on economic development for Jamestown, supported through a mix of public and private funding, ticket sales, and donations.

Conferences, Exhibitions, & Performances

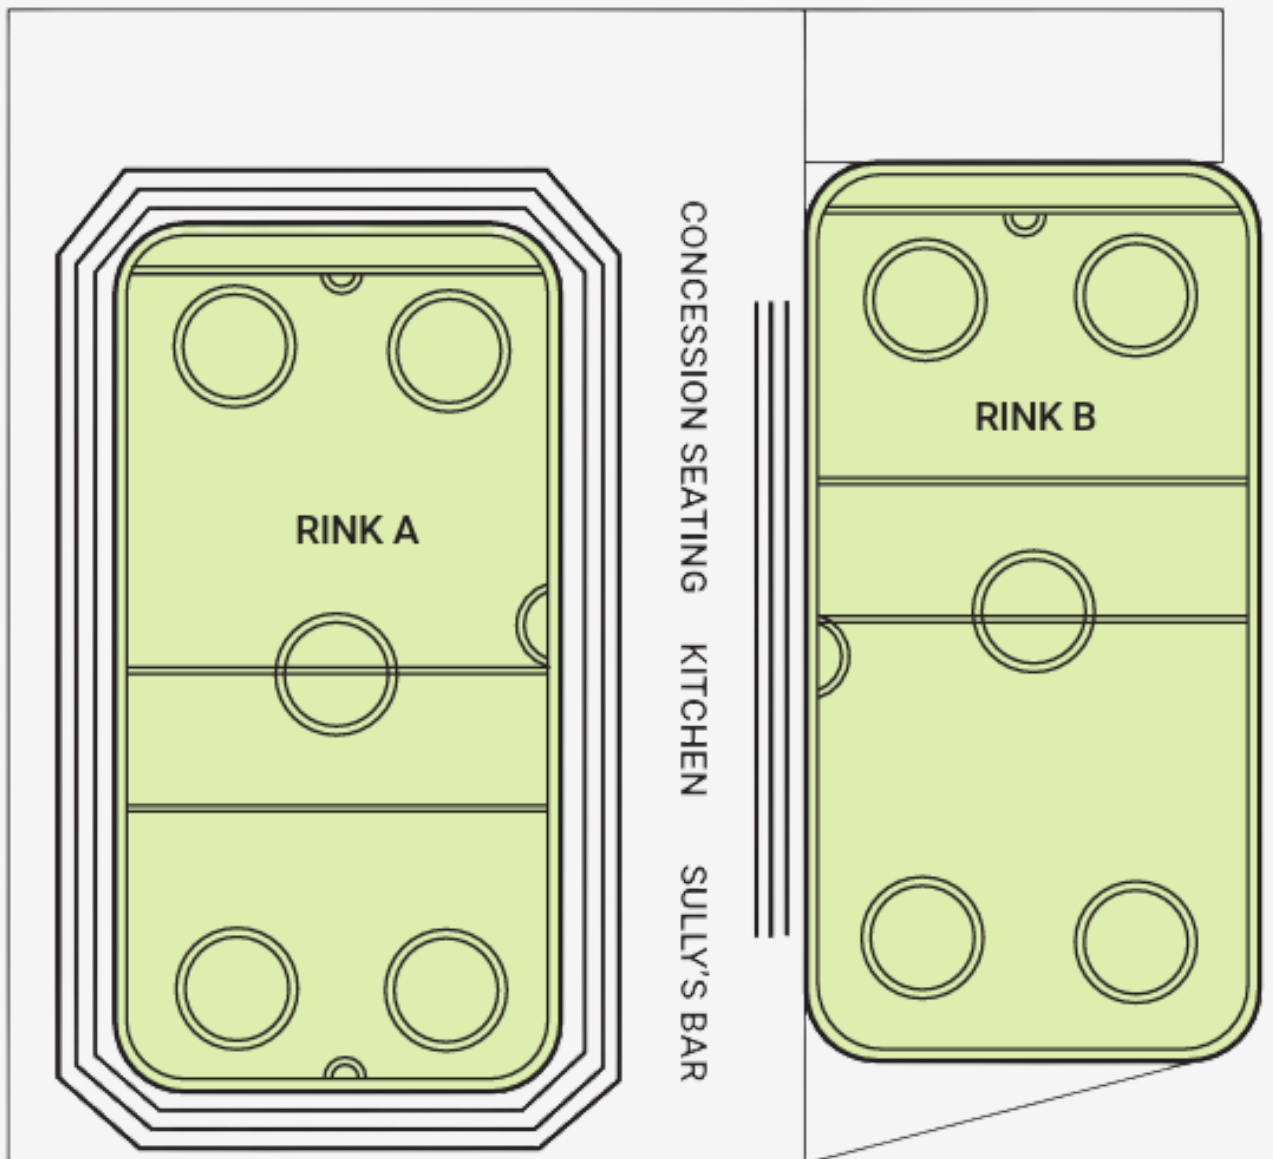

■ Events of Every Scale

As a premier facility in a mid size city that attracts visitors from around the world, Northwest Arena offers a unique venue for multiday conferences with 17,000 square feet of exhibit space. The spacious facility seats up to 3,000 for concerts and 2,000 for sporting events and is centrally located to take advantage of area restaurants, cultural attractions and accommodations. With versatile event spaces, meeting rooms and gathering areas, Northwest Arena can accommodate a variety of conference needs, from large-scale presentations and exhibits to smaller meetings and networking opportunities. Convenient amenities, flexible layouts and professional event support make it easy to create a seamless experience for attendees, while the facility's downtown location provides opportunities to explore all that Jamestown has to offer between sessions and events.
